ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Youthful Inmate of House of Ill Fame Takes Laudanum.

Ruby Ashby, a little girl who came from Dickson, Tenn., several weeks ago and has since been an inmate of a house of ill fame near the city, attempted to destroy her life Wednesday by taking laudanum. This was the second attempt she has made. Physicians succeeded in relieving her and she is up again. She claims to be only 13 years old. A love affair and remorse over her life of shame are the probable causes of the act.

The company appealed on the instructions.

MISS BAKER WINS.

Effective Work Done By the Friends of the Julien Belle.

Out of Over 52,000 Votes Cast She Received 25,256.

MISS TONY WARE A STRONG SECOND.

The voting contest inaugurated by the Kentuckian last fall to determine the most popular young lady in Christian county, was decided Wednesday afternoon in favor of Miss Alberta Baker, of Julien.

The interest manifested surpassed all expectations. The total vote was considerable more than 52,500, and the Kentuckian's subscription list received a boom that brought many new patrons and induced many delinquents to pay up their arrearages.

The contest began about September 1st and was to have closed December 29th, but was postponed until March 4th. It had grown in interest from the first and closed with a degree of excitement that sidetracked political races and all other matters for the last three days.

The coupons were saved by thousands and all day Wednesday the holders were busy bringing them in and redeeming them with certified ballots. This was done in advance of the count to lighten the labor of the judges at the final count. Counting committees went over the coupons and certified to the contents of the packages and these were all taken up and destroyed and the votes all entered on one ballot. Some ballots were for 1,000 to 2,000 votes and perhaps 10,000 coupons were converted into ballots. Many subscribers who paid up, some for several years at a time, took their ballot certificates away with them and these were deposited the last day. Miss Baker had 12,000 reserve ballots that were not put in until five minutes before the vote closed. These had been gathered up by her friends in a most systematic and thorough manner. They came from all portions of the county and subscribers in distant states caught the fever and sent coupons from as far as California.

There were five official counts made by the judges, Mayor Jountt Henry and County Judge W. T. Fowler. The fourth of these was made Tuesday afternoon and the previous counts all included in a statement up to the last day. The final count was therefore only one day's transactions and the labor-saving method adopted made the work comparatively easy and the result was known in a few minutes after the box was closed at four o'clock.

Mr. Geo. C. Long and Mr. Geo. E. Gary assisted the judges and a large crowd was on hand to learn the result.

Miss Baker, who wins the elegant suit of bedroom furniture, worth $110, is the second daughter of Mrs. Julia Stowe Baker, and is a most attractive young lady. She is young, vivacious and pretty and her popularity is attested by the many thousands of votes received in a contest in which a dozen or more of the most popular young ladies in the county were voted for. Miss Tony Ware, who led the contest until the heavy reserve strength of Miss Baker was voted, is the oldest daughter of Mr. J. D. Ware, of this city. The votes she received were a high compliment to the recipient. Although she was handicapped by the fact that while the Kentuckian is read by practically all of the people of the county, its city circulation is not more than one-fifth of its county circulation. As it became in the end a contest between town and country, the advantage was necessarily with the country. The 13,700 votes she received were a fitting testimonial of the high esteem in which she is held, both in the city and the country.

Other young ladies received very complimentary votes, as will be seen from the official tabulation. Miss Essie Day, who holds third place, is a daughter of Mr. C. M. Day, of Crofton, but is at present a schoolgirl at Pembroke. She is quite young and will some day be heard from again in future popularity contests.

The furniture won by Miss Baker is one of the handsomest suits ever brought to Hopkinsville. It is on exhibition at Pyle & Garnett's store and will be formally presented to Miss Baker after the official publication in to-day's paper.

The Kentuckian desires to tender its thanks to Judge Fowler and Mayor Henry for their valued services in deciding the contest. The editor also wishes to express his appreciation of the interest shown in the contest by his friends over the county. The number of votes cast was almost double the number expected. Up to Tuesday, it was believed that 15,000 votes would win; previous estimates having been successively raised from 7,500 and 10,000, as the interest grew.

This contest was of course confined to the ladies and there is such a demand for one in which the men can be voted for we take this opportunity to announce that we will in a short while inaugurate a contest on the same plan to give the men a chance.

The figures given herewith are the final and official returns from the contest just closed.

CAT WITH RABIES.

Two Crofton Men Were Bitten and Mad Stone Applied.

Mr. Ernest Brown, of Crofton, and Mr. Will Long, of near that place, were each bitten by a cat supposed to be afflicted with rabies. The former was bitten on the hand and the latter on the heel. Both young men went to Paducah and had Capt. Fowler's madstone applied to the wounds. The stone adhered to Mr. Long's heel for about sixty hours and to the wound on Mr. Brown's hand for fourteen hours.

They returned home this week and no serious results are now anticipated.

NO IMPROVEMENT

Noted in Condition of Major Ferrell.

Maj. J. O. Ferrell, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy the night of February 24th, is not improving any. His left side is entirely helpless and while there seems to be no immediate danger, he is apparently a hopeless invalid, perhaps indefinitely. His school has been suspended and will not be resumed at all. His son, Prof. C. C. Ferrell, of Oxford, Miss., has been with him for a week, but will have to return home in a short while, perhaps this week.

Col. Paul M. Milliken has been appointed chief of police of Cincinnati.

TOO MUCH WATER.

Middleboro Flooded by a Disastrous Waterspout.

Great Volume of Water Coming Down the Cumberland River.

Heavy rains in the vicinity of Middleboro caused an unprecedented flood in Yellow creek valley and at 2 o'clock Saturday morning the city was overflooded by a torrent of water. Every store in the business center was flooded and people were forced to flee from their homes for safety. Heavy damage was done to mining property in Mingo, Tenn., bridges, railroad tracks and houses being swept away. It is estimated that the damage in Middleboro and Mingo will amount to $200,000. At Pineville a long boom was swept away and 50,000 staves were lost. Serious damage is reported at Barbourville, Burnside and other places along the Cumberland river.

A Woman's Words of Praise.

Neosho Falls, Kans., Nov. 13, '01. Peppin Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill. Dear Sirs:—For almost fifteen years I suffered from indigestion, and last winter thought I would die, when my doctor, Dr. A. J. Lincum, of this place, advised me to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which I did, and two bottles cured me. It not only relieved me, but it cured me so that I have not been troubled since. If any one should suffer me $500, I would not mind taking it. No one can take your medicine without being convinced of its more than wonderful cures. I recommend it to all my friends as a laxative and stomach remedy. Yours with gratitude, Mrs. J. Morgan.

SUES HIS LAW PARTNER.

Fugitive Taylor Claims He Has Not Got His Share of Fees.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—William S. Taylor, former governor of Kentucky, has entered suit against his former law partner, Reuben N. Miller, for dissolution of partnership and an accounting. Taylor alleges that since he withdrew from the firm a few months ago, Miller has collected upward of $250 in fees belonging to the firm and refuses to turn over Taylor's share, which by an agreement was to be one half. Miller formerly lived in Breckinridge county, Ky., and came to Indianapolis about the time Taylor fled to escape arrest for alleged complicity in the Gobel murder.

SICK OR ILL.

Letter Word Has Displaced the Former. Although Less Valuable. "Shall we say that a man is very sick or that he is very ill?" asked a young man who takes much interest in the study of words, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "Or shall we use both words without any sort of discrimination? Which word more nearly describes the condition? An answer to this question will settle the whole problem—a problem recently raised because of an increased tendency to give the preference to ill. Personally I am very much inclined to the word sick. Sick is the stronger word of the two. It is clearer because less involved in the entanglements which mark the evolutionary processes. Sick describes more exactly the state to which it is applied. We of course may say that a man is very ill and may be perfectly understood. The cause of the popular and extensive use of the word no ambiguity attaches to the expression. 'He is a very ill man.' But isn't sick clearer, more exact and more forcible? I think so for many reasons. In the first place, sick is more restricted in its meaning.

"It has been given an extremely broad range. It is a synonymic relation to the word ill in its extreme. Bad, poor, wicked, low and other simple words are synonymically related to ill. Besides, ill is variously used as a prefix to other words, as ill-conduct, ill-bred, ill-mannered, and it has even been used as a prefix to healthy. It is preferable to sick which is not infinitely better to speak of a man's sick health. Health can be easily become sick as it becomes ill, when used as a prefix means healthy, but health, for instance, which, by the way, is worse English. Health cannot be bad. Bad health means sick—that is the robust, vigorous, well balanced physical state embodied by the word health may become impaired by the setting in of the processes of decay and disintegration. Health is always good. Health means hale—that is, whole, fair, sound, and so forth. And hence ill and bad, as prefixes to health, are simply grotesque, shocking and almost inconceivable. All of which would seem to sustain my idea of giving the preference to sick. To repeat what I have already said, it is clearer, less involved, more definite and more forcible in its meaning, and comes much nearer describing the state to which we refer now in the habit of applying it. Still there is a growing tendency to give the preference to ill, as regrettable as the fact may seem under the circumstances."

NEWFOUNDLAND'S BEAUTIES.

It Has Caribou, Grouse, Salmon, Trout, Climate and Scenery. I regret that the little is known of the island by those who live in the habit of seeking people in this country, for I feel sure, says Robert Bond, in the New York Independent, that if it were better known hundreds of Americans would visit it during the summer season. The summer months are perfectly delightful. There are no extremes of heat or sudden changes to cold; the air is fresh and breezy. As regards scenery, Newfoundland has been aptly termed the American Switzerland, for it abounds in beautiful lakes, rivers teem with salmon and trout, which are free to all who desire to throw the fly.

The hills and valleys of the interior afford the finest caribou and grouse shooting to be found anywhere. I speak from a knowledge that few, if any, even of my own countrymen possess. For 20 years ago, when I had more leisure than I now enjoy, I used to spend at least two months every year in traversing the interior. There were no railways in the land at that time, and journeying had to be done by canoe and on foot. With Indian guides I have been all over the island—north, south, east and west—and crossed it from east to west three times, taking a different route on each occasion. The railway has done much of the work of the canoe, but it has not turned the boat and its contents over to a Minneapolis piano dealer as the first payment on an instrument he desired to purchase. When the coppers were counted they were found to number over 2,600.

Saved His Penoles. For several years J. F. Zalusky, the Chicago baseball player, has been depositing all the pennies he received in change for his various purchases in a strong wooden box he had constructed for the purpose. The other day he turned the box and its contents over to a Minneapolis piano dealer as the first payment on an instrument he desired to purchase. When the coppers were counted they were found to number over 2,600.

WASTE PUT TO GOOD USE.

Choice Perfumes Often Come from the Strangest Materials.

The choicest perfumes that are placed upon the market are no doubt obtained from oils and ethers extracted from flowers; but there are many others, says the New York Post, which are artificially made, many out of the distillation of spirits. The fuel oil obtained in the distillation of spirits has an odor that is peculiarly disagreeable, yet it is used, after treatment with proper acids and oxidizing agents, in making the oil of apples and the oil of pears, and the oil of grapes and the oil of cognac are little more than fuel oil diluted. Oil of pineapple is best made by the action of putrid cheese on sugar; or by distilling rancid butter with alcohol and sulphuric acid. One of the most popular perfumes may be obtained from one of the products of gas tar, out of which is also obtained the oil of bitter almonds, so largely consumed in the manufacture of perfumed soap and confectionery.

The refuse of cities throughout the civilized world is now generally collected and disposed of for sanitary reasons, though in many instances it is utilized to good advantage for industrial purposes. The collection of this refuse has been made only within a comparatively few years, but is now carried on systematically, being more or less self-supporting and advantageous from an industrial point of view. Formerly this refuse was simply accumulated and disposed of by burning, or casting into streams or onto waste land. Nails, bones, glass, rags, iron, paper, and other articles are separately collected and sold. Old tin canisters are used (1) for the recovery of solder, (2) for the recovery of the tin, and (3) for remelting in the manufacture of steel or iron. The waste heat from furnaces, into which the inflammable refuse is thrown, may be utilized for steam purposes in operating engines for electric lighting and power. The city of Glasgow, Scotland, obtains waste heat from such furnaces equivalent to nearly 9,000 horse-power per day of ten hours for power for manufacturing purposes.

THE AMPHIBENA.

An Odd South American Bird That Protects the Ants.

Birds are usually considered among the worst foes of ants, yet, says the Detroit Free Press, there is one bird which is not only tolerated, but apparently favored by these insects. This is the amphibena, a native of South America. It feeds on certain larger insects which prey upon ants, and in return the ants permit the bird to build its nest in their hills and never molest even the helpless young. In one of the Chiriqui islands, off the coast of New Zealand, a curious bird, called the tuatara, and a kind of petrel are found inhabiting the same homes and living together in the most perfect amity.

The lizard is in this case the excavator. The burrow is only two or three feet long. The petrel, however, occasionally enlarges the chamber. Each builds its nest upon opposite sides of the chamber, the lizard always invariably choosing the left side and the petrel the right.

The petrel is the caterer. It brings in worms, beetles, fish and other odds and ends, and after eating as much as it wants leave the remains for the companion on the opposite side. This is one of the most remarkable of all animal companionships.

A similar case, and one that is very frequently quoted, is that of the North American prairie dog, which frequently shares its home with a kind of small owl. It is, however, no believed that the owl is not a particularly welcome intruder, but merely exists on sufferance in its borrowed home.

Certainly the rattlesnakes which often inhabit the same burrows are not members of a happy family. In fact they live upon their unwilling hosts. The South African meerkat is also known to live in such a way with the lizard, but in this case also it is not certain whether the two creatures are of any special assistance to one another.

The sea cucumber also give a home to a peculiar class of fishes which are colorless, and quite without means of protection other than those afforded by their hosts.

Curious Adornment.

The latest craze in Paris is the wearing of lighted lanterns as a personal ornament. The fashion originated with a speculative manufacturer, whose "petites lanternes" were bought by tens of thousands at the fair at Neuilly. The lantern is very small and neat, and made in a gothic style after an ancient model.

LITTLE WOMEN.

Nature states womanhood from the period when the womanly function is first established, so that nature's little women are school-girls, shop-girls, etc. And there lies a danger. This period is one of the most important in a woman's life, the mental effort of study, the physical effort of labor, are doubly exhausting at this season, and coupled with neglect or ignorance are often responsible for irregularity and other womanly ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may be relied upon to carry the woman safely through this period, as it does through maternity and the later abuse of life. This great medicine establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Southport, Green Co., Wis. "Everything that could be thought of was done to help her, but it was of no use. She kept failing and I gave up, thinking she must die. I must say, Doctor, that only your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave to-day. When she had taken several bottles the natural function was established, and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold everywhere, in paper covers, in seal and in glass bottles. Write for a free copy of the book. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How Can I Keep Up with the Times?

It is pretty hard to keep well informed on the political news, the scientific news, the literary news, the educational movements, the great business developments, the hundreds of interesting and valuable articles in the hundreds of excellent magazines. About the only way it can be done by the average busy man and woman is to read a magazine like "The Review of Reviews," and, as it is the only magazine of the sort, it is a good thing to send $2.50 for a year's subscription.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT says: "I know that through its columns views have been presented to me that I could not otherwise have had access to; because all earnest and thoughtful men, no matter how widely their ideas diverge, are given free utterance in its columns."

PLAIN PROOF.

What This Gentleman Says is a Mere Statement of Facts.

No one can have any reason for disbelieving from the particulars and proofs which follow, for verifications of some of them is within my reach. Every resident of this vicinity. That Dawson's Kidney Pills promptly and effectually cure kidney complaints is substantiated not only in this particular case, but by all who have given them a fair trial. Testimony shows that you do not have to take them indefinitely to be cured.

Walter McAdams, a machine hand, employed at J. Holiday & Sons planing mill, Wheeling, West Va., address 933 Jacob street, says: "I had a not used Dawson's Kidney Pills when I did I would not be alive now. I was in a terrible condition, and although I took quarts of medicine I got no better, but worse. A crowd spoke of my bad appearance and thousands knew about it. I could hardly get around, and felt and looked like a dead man more than a living one. Dawson's Kidney Pills were a blessing to me, half a box relieved me, three boxes entirely cured me and now I feel as though my back was as strong as that of any horse in Wheeling. I would rather have a box of Dawson's Kidney Pills than the services of all the doctors in the State."

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spill This Story to Tell It in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Meigs Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturer of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." For sale by C. K. Wylie.

SUCCESSFUL APPEAL.

A Peddler Who Had Had Poor Luck Alters His Tactics.

He began, to feel that he was not quite a success at the peddler's business, and he thought he would have to be a little more diplomatic. His special line of goods was a new kind of hair-dye. He had begun at the end of a row of two-story brick residences, and when he finally appeared at the door of the first house in answer to his ring he had blurted out:

"Do you go in for hair-dye, madam? If so, no doubt you would be glad--"

But she wasn't, says London Tit-Bits.

The door shut with a bang and he was left on the outside with his speech unfinished.

He tried around in a bewildered sort of way for a minute, and then drifted on to the next house. Here his ring was answered by a large, healthy looking female, who glanced suspiciously at the article in his hand and sharply demanded:

"Well, sir, what do you want?"

"I--I would like to show you a patent hair-dye," he stammered.

"A new patent hair-dye. Probably you may already be troubled with a few silver streaks, madam, and--"

Slam!

Again the dispenser of hair-dye was left to finish his remarks in solitude.

"I don't spring the thing on 'em in the right way exactly," he muttered to himself, as he moved on to the next house. "I shall have to try a different tack, if I'm going to make a success in the business."

Then he briskly descended the steps of the third house, rang the bell, and a few moments later, when an angular, sour-looking female confronted him with a stony glare, he glanced timidly up at her somewhat scanty, and particularly ungraceful, locks of gray, and hesitatingly began:

"Madam, I was about to call your attention to a patent hair-dye, which I am introducing to the public, but I see there will be no use trying to sell any to you."

"Why, no?" she stammered, blushing.

"Because a lady with such an abundant and shapely head of hair as yours certainly has no need of a hair-dye," was the diplomatic reply.

"Dear me! How observing you are!" she murmured. "But--um--couldn't I use it for some other purpose--as a brown boot polish, for instance?"

"Certainly, madam. I forgot to mention that it makes a first-class brown polish. Price? Only two shillings, madam. Will one bottle be enough? All right; there's your change. Much obliged, madam. There is my card, and any time you need another bottle of dye--I should say brown polish--if you will send me word I shall be happy to furnish it. Good-day, madam."

THE ARCADIA.

This Popular Hostelry Now Open For Guests.

Big preparations are being made at Dawson Springs for the approaching watering season. The Hotel Arcadia, which has earned the reputation of being one of the most popular hostelries extant, has been greatly improved in many ways and is now strictly up-to-date in all respects. Many new rooms have been added, the dining room has been enlarged, the Western part of the main building has been extended and the grounds have been beautified, making the place a lovely one for those who are seeking pleasure, as well as a most desirable one for the many who visit Dawson in quest of health. This is the season of the year for purifying the blood and building up the system and the Arcadia has many visitors, who are there for the purpose of securing the benefits derived from the use of the famous Dawson waters. A large number of invalids have been there through the winter and visitors are rapidly increasing.

The management of the Arcadia has always maintained the highest order of excellence and the genial hosts, N. M. Holman & Co., and their corps of assistants always give their visitors attention most cordial. Nothing is overlooked in providing for their comfort and pleasure and extraordinary pains will be taken looking to that end with the season now approaching.

When you visit Dawson, if you are not already numbered among the thousands of Arcadia patrons, try this popular hotel. See ad. elsewhere in this issue of Kentuckian.

Wakened Children.

For a long time the two-year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 69 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by C. K. Wylie, druggist.

If it is a bilious attack, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and a quick recovery is certain. For sale by C. K. Wylie, druggist.

TO CARRY ANAESTHETICS

Mrs. Booth's Suggestion for Alleviating Suffering in Wrecks.

Cleveland, Feb. 28.--Mrs. Ballington Booth, of the Volunteers of America, has sent a letter to the managers of the several railways of the United States, in which she says that much of the suffering endured in railroad wrecks could be alleviated by anaesthetics, which should be a part of each train's equipment. She says that she has traveled much and has seen a great many passengers hurt who could be relieved by being made unconscious.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by C. K. Wylie.

Killed By Street Car.

Bowling Green, Ky., March 1.--Walton Claypool, a prominent merchant, broker and stockman, was accidentally killed here this afternoon by a street car. He was on horseback and the horse became frightened at the car and threw him in front of it, and before Motorman Dan Casey could stop the car it passed over him, dismembering him and killing him instantly. Mr. Claypool was prominent in politics and one of the city's best known men.

Election November 1903.Beckham got the hot end of the newspaper discussion with Judge Breckinridge.Clarry Tandy says he has no intention of withdrawing from the race for Secretary of State.The anti-machine fight is on in Newport, as elsewhere, with the Beckhamites led by John P. Newman. There is going to be a hot time in the old town before the gang succeeds in throttling the will of the people.Delaware's two new Republican Senators hurried to Washington the day after they were elected and the Senate had its full membership of 90 at the close, for the first time in four years.Suppose Judge Cantrell decides that the constitution does not permit Beckham to succeed himself for two elective terms? Then what?
It is too awful to think about. And that is just about what Judge Cantrell is liable to do.Gov. Yates, of Illinois, like Lieut.
Gov. Tillman, of South Carolina, got on the warpath last week and threatened to kill P. L. Hardin, a Chicago editor, who expressed the opinion that Mrs. Yates was not so much at ease in swell society as Mrs. Carter Harrison.Unable to stand the prodding of both of his opponents, Gov. Beckham has decided to let the courts pass upon his ineligibility in a test suit. It is now in order for some benchman of the machine to announce in advance what the decision will be.Judge Breckinridge makes a strong point against Beckham's eligibility when he says that if the latter's contention is correct there is nothing in the way of having his salary increased, since the constitutional inhibition is against increasing salaries during "a term." If Cripps is not serving a term, by all means let him strike for a raise.
He is too great a man to command only $6,500 a year.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh.

ON THE RUN.

A few months ago the machine was claiming the nomination of Beckham and the slate as a foregone conclusion. Today Beckham is scared out of his boots, has been forced to put his political fate in the hands of a court, a majority of whom are opposed to him, and in a week more he will be making his contest entirely on the defensive.
In Louisville, in Newport, in Lexington, in all his so-called strong holds, the fight is on and the machine is up against the real thing.
Louisville will either go against Beckham, or prove too close to help him much. Newport is the same way. In the first and second districts Beckham will be hardly in it, on account of the unsavory record his administration has made. The Western Asylum, supposed to be a help, is the chief source of his weakness in the counties within smelting distance. Here in Christian he is practically without influential support. His leading benchmen have practically destroyed what little influence they may have had, by waging a warfare from suspicious motives, on a popular home man for circuit judge.In no part of the State can Beckham claim to be a popular favorite, now that the people see a chance to support a real man for Governor, they are tumbling over each other to get into line for Hendrick or Breckinridge. If the court of appeals decides that Beckham cannot serve another term, it will then be a race between two good men and the machine will find itself out of business. In the meanwhile, the certain defeat of a portion of the slate is admitted and several others, including Cripps himself, are getting white around the gills.

HOW'S THIS?

The news comes from Frankfort that Gov. Beckham has appointed Judge Willis L. Reeves, of Todd county, special judge of the Christian circuit court to serve during the March term, while Judge Cook, the regular judge, is prosecuting his campaign for re-election.With all due respect for Judge Reeves, who is an able lawyer and clever gentleman, it is proper to add that it was entirely unnecessary for Gov. Beckham to send an outsider here to hold court. There are more than forty lawyers in the district who are abundantly qualified to discharge the duties of the office, at least temporarily. It is true that nearly all of them are against both Gov. Beckham and Judge Cook and this probably accounts for the appointment of a judge from another district. Judge Cook's friends, who of course are responsible for the slight shown the third district bar, have made a break that will cost both Beckham and Judge Cook many votes.The general panic in the ranks of the machine followers is particularly by the local Beckhamites. There is fear and consternation and a feeling of uncertainty that makes some of them cuss and some of them drink. They are trying to figure out where they will be "at" when Cripps gets his quietus.

oration of Dewey's victory at Manila.An ingenious dueling sword was shown the other day in Paris by the well-known fencer, M. Hissard, to the members of the Societe d'Escrime a l'Epee. By a novel arrangement when the fencer touches his opponent, the blade of the sword enters the handle a short distance and sets a marker in motion, which registers any number from nought to three. The idea of the invention is to prevent disputes between fencers, and enable them to judge of the value of their coups.The inhabitants of the outlying dis-

WAYS OF DOG STEALERS.

Rapid Growth of a Lucrative "Profession" in London.Dog stealing in London, says the London Express, has increased to a very large extent lately, and the professional dog stealers, of whom there are many, are having a very prosperous time. A well-known West end veterinary surgeon the other day explained some of the methods of the dog stealers. "These men," he said, "are by no means ragged loafers, but well-dressed persons of some address, many of them well off. They find out a well-known society lady or gentleman has a dog which is taken for a walk daily. They cultivate that dog's acquaintance with surreptitious feeds, and then one day the man finds himself round a corner alone with the dog, and the theft is accomplished."
"Sometimes a decoy dog is taken out, especially in a case where it is desired to steal an animal of the larger kind. Kensington Gardens are the happy hunting-grounds of the dog thief, and scores of pets are there stolen from their owners. I should say from my knowledge that at least 50 dogs a month are stolen in the West end. Generally speaking, a lost dog can always be recovered if one goes the right way about it. For instance, I got to know a dog dealer who, though he would never steal a dog on his own account, must, I am morally certain, be in touch with those who do.
A client comes to me with a tale of a lost dog and prepared to spend money to get it back."I go to the dog dealer, describe the animal, and ask him to keep his eyes open for it. Very shortly he comes to me and tells me for what sum he will be able to produce the dog. Sometimes negotiations go on for months. Where rewards are not forthcoming, or where the police are hot on the track, the stolen dogs are sent down to Club Row, in Bethnal Green, where there is a sale every Sunday morning."

Coasting and Sleighing, Are They Pleasures of the Past?

MARSHALL FIELD, Jr., dearly loves to "spring a novelty" on his millionaire friends. Perhaps it was a yearning for the sport of the old days on the New England hills when coasting was the enjoyment of ruddy cheeked lads and lassies that helped to dispel the gloom of the short winter days, that prompted this young man recently to gather together some of his society friends and bundled up in the conventional Canadian toboggan uniforms they made merry on a public toboggan slide.

Debutantes, whose names are in the safest list of society, and business men, who some day will be the guiding gen-uses of great commercial houses, dragged toboggan along side school girls, stenographers, clerks, etc., a bucking broncho. A more stable and duelle jumper was made by fastening two or three staves side by side, but these were not considered as fast travelers as the single staves.

The jumper was at its best, or one might say at its worst, when gliding down a hill covered with a thick snow crust; a slight slip often imparting a rapid, rotary motion to the jumper in its downward rush that would put the navigator clear out of his reckoning, and bring him smack into an apple tree, while the jumper whirled merrily on to the huckleberry bushes.

Nothing in the list of coasting contrivances can equal the jumper for daredevil, exhilarating sport.

"The first rational and safe coasting sled was the homemade vehicle called sleigh in New York and vicinity. This production was like the modern 'clip-

"CLIPPER'S" BARGE BUILT IN BOSTON IN 1845 per" sled, except that it was shorter or "stubbier" and a little heavier. Some were adorned with iron runners, while others went unadorned. It was not the clipper, but a little while before the war, or pointer, sled came into vogue. And this sled with round spring runners is practically the same to-day as it was 40 years ago. This spring runner sled a half century ago was to the old ploughing sleds what the pneumatic tire is to the old-fashioned shaker" solid tires. About the time the "bowed out" spring runner clipper made its appearance the "bowed out" sled was introduced.

No one had thought about gender in sleds previous to this time, but with the higher sled the girls could safely tuck away their skirts and enjoy the exhilaration of coasting with their male friends. The girls' sled of today, it is a shame to say, is but a frail imitation of the original—the early sleds were built with cushioned seats and dashboards. Mr. Steele has said that he bought in 1836, and it is as sound as a dollar yet. I had one made by hand down in Vermont in 1855 that I used until I was a young man, when a milk-wagon driver ran away with it. Report has it that it has outlasted many of the modern, machine-made sleds that are disposed of in the department stores around the holidays.

In New Jersey and New York and in other parts of the country, except New England, the two-wheeled arrangement—sleds joined together with a plank resting on center pins, is known as the "bod sled." In the New England states they still call it the "doubly-runner," "traverse" and "ripper."

Anybody with an eye for carpentering may make two bod sleds and fix and there was "no arrogance of wealth." The party was strictly incognito and this is the first time that anyone has written about it. Yet, I have it from a close friend of one of the young millionaires that "no country boy ever had any more fun on his coasting hill" than this in-promptu party in a city park had that bracing night."

Is coasting a neglected winter glory?
Perhaps in the big cities it is, but who shall say that when the snow is favorable in the hilly country districts, the small boy does not derive as much fun out of the sport as he did years ago in New England? It was less than 33 years ago that public coasting was common in the big cities. Recently, when I was in Boston, strolling under the big elms that are slowly but surely dying, the site of the old public coasting place from the top of State House hill down across the historic park for fully 4,500 feet was pointed out to me. Imagine a lot of youngsters coasting there now!
The practical, erudite and provincial Hobbs, if asked to provide coasting avenues for the youth now would say something about underground conduits or subways. Not longer than 4 years ago the small boys of the city of Milwaukee took advantage of the hilly nature of the city to coast on the public streets. Once when a long boy loaded with school books ran away down Marshall street and meeting a milk-wagon dashed beneath the wagon safely, although spectators had closed their eyes to the imminent slaughter of all the children, the city fathers were appealed to and the policemen makes it hard for a boy to get much coasting now on the streets.

James J. Steele, who used to revel in the sport of coasting "in the good old

THE "MAYFLOWER" A FAMOUS BOAT SLEIGH OF THE FORTIES times," has contributed some "velolore" to Outing, which H. & W. Field has quickly illustrated. He tells of the days in Boston when the police insured fair play for the coasters and wooden bridges were temporarily built over sidewalks so that pedestrians would not be awfully off their feet by the coasters. "The sleds here were the enthusiasts back to the time of George III., when coasters were mere boards provided with long beef bone runners. These gradually 'evolved' until the elaborate tandems of today resulted. Next in the order of sleds were the 'skippers' and 'jumpers,' made of splintered boards. 'Skipper' sleds made of a single barrel stave," says Mr. Steele, "of moderate width, to which was nailed a 10-inch seat post about midships. A piece of barrel head constituted the seat. To navigate the craft required no little skill, the revolutions and convolutions being formed by the rider while 'gliding' the hand of the ferried old thing, being skin to the stiles of a tenderfoot on in kingbolts for the plank to rest on.

But the front sled only must be given free play to revolve. The double runner can be steered by the boy lying flat on the rear sled, but this is not only a less satisfactory method than that of sitting upright, with feet braced on the cross piece of the front sled and steering by pulling on the front piece with the right or left foot as the needs of steering come up.
The large sleds of a half century ago were great sights in the eastern cities. They rivaled the circus chariots and gilded wagons in richness of design. Plug hats were worn by the men who went sleighing in those days in these big craft. Sloperippers, brava and not lads and caps were worn, but there were no Darbies. Think of the small boy nowadays overlooking a chance to "sack" these plug hats with snowballs! But after all the research into the "lore of the sled" strikes the exultant that Young America is about the same as he was "in yore olde days." E. O. WESTLAKE.

Court Ruling as to Fees of County Attorneys.

Fraukfort, Ky., March 3.—In affirming a judgment of the Marion circuit court in the case of Ben Spalding against C. S. Hill the Appellate court today construed Section 133 of the Kentucky statutes, relating to fees of County Attorneys, to mean that the County Attorneys present and assisting in a prosecution at the time of rendition of judgment is entitled to the 25 per cent. allowed by the statute. The court, Judge Nunn writing, says that to hold to the contrary would bring about endless confusion and litigation, and all out-going county attorneys would claim and demand a part of the 25 per cent. on each judgment on prosecutions originated during their term of office to the extent of the labor and service rendered therein.

The question was raised in a petition filed by Spalding, former county attorney of Marion county, against Hill, who succeeded him in that office. Spalding claimed to be entitled to 25 per cent. of $1,200 collected in three judgments from the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in cases instituted and prosecuted during his term of office as county attorney. The lower court decided against him and the decision is upheld.

JOHN P. BRAGG DEAD.

Another One of Pembroke's Best Citizens Passes Away.

Mr. John P. Bragg, a member of the firm of Smith & Bragg, merchants at Pembroke, died at an early hour Tuesday morning of blood poisoning.

He had been ill for several weeks and about two weeks ago one of his legs was amputated, in the hope that his life might be saved. He stood the operation well and showed some improvement thereafter, but on Sunday he became worse and continued to sink until relieved by death.

Mr. Bragg was a native of Virginia, having been born in Mecklenburg county in 1818, and served in the Confederate army during the Civil war. He moved to Kentucky three years after the close of the war and settled at Pembroke. He had been engaged in the mercantile business in that place for about 30 years and accumulated considerable property.

He was a most excellent citizen and had a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Bragg was a member of the Baptist church. Funeral services were held at his late residence Wednesday morning, conducted by Rev. A. R. Bond and the interment took place in Pembroke cemetery.

"THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER."

This Powerful Melodrama to be Produced Here.

"The Convict's Daughter," a powerful melodrama and one that has caught the public fancy, will be produced with all its wealth of scenery, startling devices, electrical effects and superb acting company at Holland's Opera House, Tuesday night, March 10. Although only in its second season the play has been witnessed by larger audiences than any other melodrama written in previous years. It appeals to every class of theatre-goers, from the boy in the gallery to the mother of the family; to sweethearts and sisters and the father who loves his home. Yet, even with all its power of entertaining, the manager has not been satisfied to stop at that. He has furnished every little detail in regard to scenes and situations, properties and mechanical devices to make a perfect performance.

The first act opens at Col. Gould's Kentucky home, with its pretty home-like cottage, beautiful flowers and shade trees, and the air of perfect contentment. One commences to feel its sunshine and warmth from the very beginning, and the interest never flags from the first to the fifth and final act. You are carried from one scene to another with keen excitement, and a great hope and desire that right shall succeed and wrong shall reap its just reward. A wonderful bond of sympathy has spread itself through the audience for the sweet innocent child of the convict and her down-trodden father. There is but one way to appreciate this truly great play—come and see it, and be convinced that "The Convict's Daughter" will always be remembered with pleasure.

Greeted by Big Audience.

Concerning the lecture of Rev. Sam Jones at Jacksonville, Ill., the Jacksonville Journal says: The famous Rev. Sam Jones, made first appearance before a Jacksonville audience last night at the Opera House, which was well filled in spite of the inclemency of the weather. The audience was in almost a constant uproar brought about by the peculiar humor and language which, according to Mr. Jones, might be said to have leaked out with every sentence, although at times was put aside for most eloquent language and serious thoughts. The applause was loud and frequent and without exception every one gave closest attention throughout, and one has to hear him speak to appreciate the effectiveness.

Rev. Jones will lecture at Holland's Opera House Wednesday night, March 25.
